Curt Norbert Schorn

Financial Director of the Ars Electronica Center

Curt Norbert Schorn has taken over as financial director of the Ars Electronica Center. His responsibilities include planning and administration as well as organizational and personnel development. He will also handle sponsor relations and contacts with the business community.

Curt Norbert Schorn was born in 1955 in Eitorf, Germany. He studied business administration in Cologne and received postgraduate training in real estate economics.

After completing his studies, he went to work in the controlling department at Esso AG, and went on to head the accounting department at Esso's Karlsruhe refinery. At Glunz AG, he was responsible for expanding and managing the controlling department of a corporation with branches in Great Britain and France. His career path then took him to Deutsche Telekom AG, where he held a variety of posts that included a broad spectrum of managerial responsibilities in several of the company's newly founded subsidiaries. As director of personnel, he strengthened management functions at the T-Mobile branch in Frankfurt. Curt Norbert Schorn also served as business manager at Dete Immobilien's branch in Karlsruhe.
