

Deep Space LIVE

Adrenalin

November 11, 2010 / 8 PM / Ars Electronica Center

(Linz, November 8, 2010) It's secreted in high-stress situations, causes the heart to beat faster and raises your blood pressure in order to make it possible to quickly provide the body with energy reserves needed to increase the chances of survival in dangerous situations. Deep Space LIVE is the place to go for a real live adrenalin rush on November 11. This week's screening features incredible images of extreme athletes whose daredevil stunts take them to the physical and mental limits. BASE jumping from the south face of Austria's Dachstein, ice climbing in Japan, Canada and Italy, or trial biking over the rooftops of Linz—visitors are in for some pure excitement!

Hermann Erber

Hermann Erber is a photographer. His works have earned him 1st Place awards at international photo competitions in Canada (Banff Mountain Festival; Mountain Photo Contest in Vancouver). Hermann Erber's pictures have graced the pages of such renowned magazines as National Geographic and GEO. In addition to his work as a photographer, Hermann Erber plays the drums.

Deep Space LIVE

The Ars Electronica Center is now hosting a Deep Space LIVE event every Thursday (except holidays) at 8 PM. Each presentation will feature ultra-high-definition imagery in 16x9-meter format and will be accompanied by expert commentary, entertaining stand-up repartee, and musical improvisation. Whether great works from the history of art, space travel, journeys of discovery in the Nanoworld, or a live concert is what you've come to behold, Deep Space LIVE stands for enlightening entertainment amidst breathtaking worlds of imagery. Admission (including an accompanying person) is €2. Holders of a valid Museum ticket are admitted free of charge.

With queries, please contact

Christopher Ruckerbauer
Tel: +43.732.7272-38
christopher.ruckerbauer@aec.at www.aec.at/press